

History

100 years of quality. The beginning.

Wiesner-Hager was founded by Josef Wiesner as a carpentry business in 1849.

In the year 1921 Rudolf Wiesner and Sebastian Hager took over their father's business, which was at that time purely a carpentry and construction company.

With the restructuring of part of the construction business into a furniture manufacture the two lay the cornerstone for a second branch of the business.

Prestigious cultural projects.

The 1950s ushered in a great period of prestigious cultural projects: Many renowned cultural sites, such as the Vienna State Opera, the Burgtheater or, a little later, the Brucknerhaus in Linz, were fitted out with chairs from Wiesner-Hager.

The company also maintained a long-standing connection with the Salzburg Festspielhaus.

A new era begins.

1984 marks the beginning of the strategic realignment with the entry of Markus Wiesner, the son of Rudolf Wiesner, through the division between construction (under the leadership of Erich Wiesner) and furniture. Important decisions sounded the bell for a phase of restructuring and increased efficiency. There was a withdrawal from the business fields of cinema, theatre and restaurants.

The full concentration was now on furnishing offices and properties.

Positioning

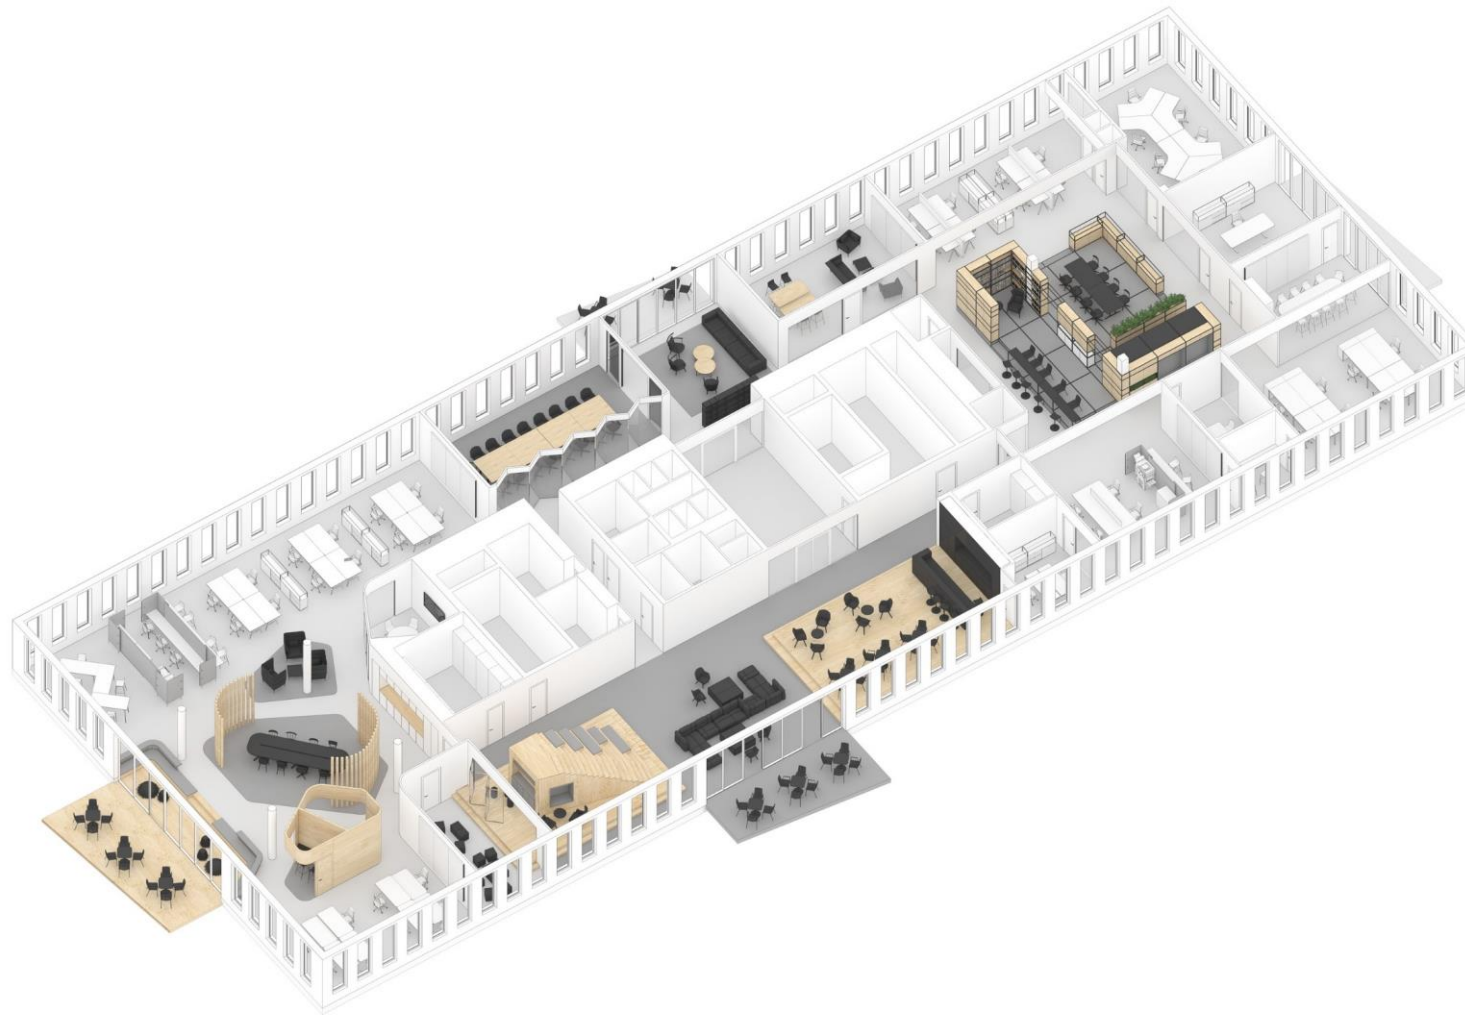

Think New Work!

“Future working environments have little in common with the well-known office. Hybrid working is fundamentally changing the meaning and face of the office. We therefore see it as our main task to turn traditional offices into contemporary places for collaboration and new forms of work.”

Laura & Markus Wiesner

Rooms with a concept.
